

NORWAY SENDS WAR THREAT TO PROTECT SHIPS

Ore Shipments to Germany
Complicate Situation in Northern Blockade.

By The Associated Press

Neutral Norway threatened today to go to war if necessary to prevent any one-sided interference with free shipping in her waters.

The warning, given before the Norwegian starting (parliament) by Foreign Minister Halvdan Koht, was directed pointedly at the British-French allies, who

The strong Norwegian stand was the high spot of a day that found the allies prosecuting their war of economic blockade against Germany without noteworthy developments on the military front.

Authorized German sources, viewing the situation, said another "decade weekend for Europe."

Minister Takes Stand
 "If the allied powers should ask us to stop free shipping, which goes on according to generally acknowledged international law, we say themselves have acknowledged," Foreign Minister Koht said, "this would either be of great damage to themselves or if such hindrance of shipping should be one-sided against one party, and therefore in open conflict with the neutrality which we have pledged ourselves to maintain, Norway will then at once be at war."

ley, in particular relation to iron ore exports from Narvik, Norway look on deeper significance because it came after the British foreign office yesterday had handed to the Norwegian and Swedish ministers in London notes outlining the allied views on neutrality.

Premier Paul Reynaud received the Norwegian and Swedish ministers last night, authorized circles said today, and also gave them a note bearing on relations between the British-French axis and the new Scandinavian

The contents of these notes remained secret, but British diplomatic sources said they consti-

On Shipments Down
Kohl said the Swedish iron exports had dropped to one-fourth their pre-war tonnage and that much more went to England than to Germany.

He contended that the importance of the iron exports was exaggerated, but that in any case free shipping through Norwegian waters was of at least as much value to the British as to their enemy.

He also sharply criticized men by German warcraft. He said Norway had lost 51 ships totalling 120,000 tons, and "three cases sinking was made in accordance with international law."

Nevertheless, he said, the only

The blockade chiefs of France and Britain conferred in London on one subject of their study here: air transport with Germany. It was reported,

"It was acknowledged that the 'air holes' in the blockade had gained importance, but possible methods of plugging them were not disclosed.

meanwhile for total mobilization at a moment's notice. A new law authorizes regulation of all citizens' services, including women

There was another neutrality echo far distant from Norway. The Argentine government, concerned that escape of three of the officers of the destroyed German pocket battleship Admiral Graf Spee might reflect on her neutrality, was taking strict measures to prevent any recurrence.

About 1,000 officers and men of the German warship were interned in Argentina after they destroyed their ship last Dec. 17.

Marion Pianist Is Presented in Recital Program

A PROGRAM which included compositions by Bach, Chopin and the more modern composers was played by Miss Kathleen Kerne, when she was presented by Mrs. Graciela Davis Dombagh in a piano recital last evening in the ballroom at Hotel Harding. Assisting on the program was William Dowler, tenor.

Miss Kerne, whose talent and interpretation of the entire program won meritorious praise from the audience of approximately 150 guests, opened her program with a group of three numbers including "Menuetto and Scherzando," Stavenhagen. The Levitsky "Valse" in her second group particularly pleased her audience, and most noteworthy was her performance in the allegro maestoso of the "Concerto in A Minor," Chopin, in which the orchestral parts on the second piano was played by Mrs. Dombagh.

Mr. Dowler chose compositions by modern composers for his group of four numbers which were most pleasing. His accompaniments were played by Mrs. Dombagh.

JUST THINGS

By EDNA S. DUTTON

Germ Ousting
THE annual germ ousting campaign is full steam ahead, and believe it or not, it's contagious. Even though you are not in the front line trenches with your favorite cleaner, bucket and suds, you will, providing you are the female of the species, be into it in some form. There is always that box of old gloves to be gone through and knock knacks picked up on jaunts into foreign territory which looked so alluring then, but for which there is no place now. And how about that hobby collection you started and then dropped mid-stream? If, at the end of your hours of sorting, you're still as well fortified with will power as when you started, you'll have them all in the trash basket without so much as a sign of regret, but if you're like most of us, the major portion of them will go right back into boxes and bundles to be disposed of at some future date. And who knows, we argue with our disappointment and rather injured conscience, we may want them some time.

It's Spring

IT'S SPRING, sure enough, despite chill winds, the rasp of shovels on the bottom of the coal bins and folks still battling with tattered and frayed coat linings. And out in the country, folks have plenty of proof that spring is here. The fields are dotted with myriads of wubly legged lambs with fleeces as white as snow, and everywhere there seems to be energetic little pigs, mostly black with cute little white boleros, racing up and down and wanting to be every place at once. Brand new calves with velvet eyes and soapy noses, peer through fences and one may expect any time for a proud Mrs. Hen that has stolen her nest to appear at the back door with a surprise in the form of a sturdy family.

Gum Parking

WOULDN'T you and you and you be indignant if one of your guests were to park their chewing gum underneath the top of your Chippendale or Duncan Phyfe? They wouldn't think of such a thing, let alone do it, says you. Well, we don't say they're your friends, and we don't say folks do it in private homes, but we do say they do it in restaurants. And it's our guess these same folks would do it in private homes if they weren't afraid of being found out. We just happened to see some tables being sent out to be "done over" and all we could think of was out-sized warts.

BAPTIST GUILD MEETS
Committees were appointed for a mother-daughter banquet next month when Florence Nightingale guild met last night at the church. Mary Louise Roberts and Edith Noggle were in charge of a program. Poems were given by Martha Lee, Mary Collins and Maryjory Seaburn. Marie Ward read the Scripture lesson and Edith Noggle sang. After contests the meeting closed with a circle of prayer. Refreshments were served.

Personal Mention

While visiting her father Mrs. Dickson was joined by her brother, Mr. Edward L. Thomas, who suffered a stroke of paralysis a month ago, visited his daughter here on a number of occasions.

Mrs. S. C. Swearingen and children, Dolores and William of Wilson avenue, have returned from Danville, Ill., where they visited Mrs. Swearingen's uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Tonguette. While there they attended a celebration of Mr. Tonguette's eightieth birthday.

Marriage Meddlers

By ADELE GARRISON

Spencer, Suspect Farm House May Have Secret Entrance.
BEWILDERMENT blended with astonishment in Lillian's face and mine as we listened to my father's reason for asking us to interview Miss Annie Carman, one of whose ancestors had been the first owner of the farm. But almost instantly I saw a gleam of comprehension come into Lillian's eyes, and wondered if her brain were harboring the same fantastic conjecture as mine.

"I think we can dismiss the possibility of those men getting into the attic by ordinary means of ingress," he said. "They would not try it in the daytime, even if the house were not adequately guarded. I will tell you something you have not known, that the temporary wire fence enclosing the part of the dooryard nearest the house is electrified and manned by guards, while the gates, heavily guarded, are kept closed, except when we desire to see certain people. But, of course, no one outside dreams of the electrification, so an unwary prowler would have been unable to get in. We must look elsewhere, and, if I am not mistaken in my conjecture, we shall not have to look far."

Secret Passage
He paused and looked speculatively at us.
"This was a seafaring community—all this end of the island in the old days," he said. "It was also a community in which certain taxes were unpopular, and smuggling was common. Some of the old houses in this part of the island had secret exits and stairways."

"Oh!" I breathed, involuntarily, for, from my earliest childhood, the very thought of a secret staircase has enchanted and intrigued me.

"Yes," my father said, smiling at me. "I believe there must be something of the sort in the old part of this house, and Jack Leslie has found out about it. I also believe."

Reuben W. Messenger, 97 on Monday. To Be Honored at Family Dinner

Reuben W. Messenger, who will be 97 years of age on Monday, will be honored with a family dinner Sunday at the home of his son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. John Montgomery of 257 North Seffner avenue, with whom he lives.

A lifelong resident of Marion county and city, Mr. Messenger is descended from a family which settled in the county in 1820. He was born in a log cabin north of Big Island, the son of Col. and Mrs. Everett Messenger. Colonel Messenger at one time owned 1,800 acres of Marion county land. His maternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Caleb Johnson, came to Ohio in 1812 from Connecticut and settled in Marion county in 1820 on 400 acres of land in Big Island and Salt Rock townships. His paternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Reuben Messenger, settled in the county in 1825. His Grandmother Messenger lived to be 93 years of age. Fifteen of her grandchildren have reached the age of 80 and of these, Reuben W. Messenger has reached the greatest age.

With Mr. Messenger Sunday will be four of his five children and their families, Mr. and Mrs. Montgomery, Mr. and Mrs. Hamer Smith of near Big Island, Mr. and Mrs. Colonel W. Messenger of near Upper Sandusky and Mr. and Mrs. J. V. Cover of Youngstown. A son, Jerome G. Messenger, who is in the west, will not be present.

After dinner there will be open house.

Mr. Messenger is active for a man of his advanced year. He is looking forward to summer when he can be out of doors. He farmed in the county until he retired about 20 years ago, and in the winter of late years he has missed being out of doors. He occupies himself with "making things" including canes and fans for his children and a complete miniature log cabin. Two years ago he attended the wedding anniversary of his son-in-law and daughter in Youngstown.

He has two brothers, Everett, 88, and J. Ira Messenger, 81, both of Arcadia, Calif. Mrs. Lura G. Messenger of 243 Forest street, who will be among the dinner guests Sunday, is a sister of his wife, who died six years ago and is the widow of his brother, the late Newton J. Messenger.

COUNTY CCC QUOTA INCREASED BY 20

Total of 66 Places Now Open Here for April.

Due to an increase in Marion county's civilian conservation camp quota for April, there are vacancies for approximately 20 more boys, Harold D. Sherrer, deputy selecting agent for the county, announced today.

Mr. Sherrer yesterday received word the county's quota has been increased to 66 for the month due to the fact that CCC officials had planned to eliminate several camps when the original quotas were set. Recently, however, additional appropriations have made it possible to continue these camps, he explained.

There already have been sufficient applications filed here to form a group that will be taken to Mansfield for official enlistment April 11, but 20 more youths can be taken care of in a group to go to Mansfield April 19. The deadline for filing applications will be April 16, Mr. Sherrer said.

Requirements for CCC enlistment are that a youth be between the ages of 18 and 21, be in good health and have a good character. Enlistment is open to all youths who come from families in moderate income groups and is not restricted to those from families on relief rolls.

Twenty-five members of Marion Chapter, Order of DeMolay, attended the institution of Baku chapter at Mansfield last night. Preceding the institution members of the Marion degree team and the Steel City degree team of Lorain were guests of Baku chapter, sponsors of the Mansfield chapter, at a dinner.

A charter class of 62 members received the initiatory and DeMolay degrees. George N. Clark, a member of the grand council, assisted by members of the Legion of Honor conducted the work. Robert W. Solinger of Marion, legion member and district deputy, assisted as grand senior counselor.

Attending from Marion were: Warren G. Cydery, master counselor; J. Edgar Mason, senior counselor; Paul E. Bechtel, junior counselor; Raymond J. Mayfield Jr., Richard E. Acker, Arthur Brobst, F. Harold Frahm, F. Riley Hall, Paul B. Voley, Kenneth W.

"I'VE ADVISED A LOT OF PEOPLE TO BUY A PONTIAC!"

PONTIAC

It's a lot of people look at the size and quality of Pontiac and decide without ever investigating that Pontiac's price is beyond their reach.

"They spot me in my big, new Pontiac and inquire how I can afford it. Few realize that Pontiac's price is right down with the lowest."

"I tell them to take a good look at a Pontiac price tag. It's an eye-opener. And that's why I'm driving a Pontiac."

"I never miss a chance to show off my Pontiac. There isn't a passer-by on earth, and I'm going three to four more miles a gallon."

It's HUMAN NATURE to let your friends in on a good thing. That's why Pontiac owners are so busy advising their friends to buy the new 1940 Pontiac.

They're pointing out that, at a price right down with the lowest, Pontiac delivers you a big, long-wheelbase car—wide-eyed and roomy—furnished and finished in luxurious fashion—and powered by a power-packed engine that challenges the genuine economy of the smallest car.

Why postpone that big, new, quality car? What's to stop you, when a big, beautiful Pontiac costs so little?

Mitchell In Role at Ohio

Member of G. W. T. W. Cast
Has Lead in "Three Cheers for the Irish."

Irish humor and sentiment are the chief ingredients of "Three Cheers for the Irish," coming to the Ohio Sunday for four days. The picture will be sponsored by the Inasmuch circle of the King's Daughters to raise money for the circle's welfare work.

"Virginia City," starring Errol Flynn and Miriam Hopkins will begin an eight-day run next Thursday.

Thomas Mitchell, the Gerald O'Hara of "Gone With the Wind" who was given an Academy Award for his supporting role of the diplomat in "Stagecoach," heads the cast.

Mitchell plays an Irish patrolman who has served his department faithfully for 25 years. He believes he is about to be promoted but instead, he is retired.

Intermingled is a feud with his young successor, Dennis Moore, who, in addition to infatigating Mitchell by being a Scotsman, caps the climax by marrying his daughter, comely Priscilla Lane. The supporting cast includes Alan Hale, Irene Dunne, Frank Jenks and Henry Armetta.

The background of "Virginia City" is the west during the Civil War and the setting is a colorful, lawless "musthroom" Nevada mining town in its rowdiest days. Flynn plays a Union intelligence officer and Miss Hopkins plays the queen of Nevada's dance halls.

Randolph Scott has the role of a Confederate worker and Humphrey Bogart is the villain, a notorious guerrilla leader of a pack of bandits.

Among supporting players are Alan Hale, Frank McHugh, Guinn "Big Boy" Williams and John Littel. Some of the action was filmed in Arizona's famous Painted Desert.

MAD ANTHONY WAYNE

SURVEY FUND ASKED

By The Associated Press
WASHINGTON, April 5.—Congressional appropriation of $30,000 to survey a proposed General Anthony Wayne Memorial parkway and shrine in Ohio, Indiana and Michigan has been recommended by Rep. Crowe, Democrat of Indiana.

Crowe said he believed the shrine should be at Ft. Wayne, Ind., but suggested consideration of Greenville, O., as proposed by Rep. Robert F. Jones, Republican of Ohio.

Chairman of the General Anthony Wayne Memorial association, Crowe suggested surveys from Ft. Wayne, through Defiance, Pullen Timbers, Toledo, to Detroit—roughly the military route of General "Mad Anthony" Wayne during his notable campaign against the Indians in the Northwest Territory in 1794.

IN LEADING ROLES OF "STRANGE CARGO"

Gable and Crawford In Palace Feature Picture

Popular Stars Teamed for Sixth Time with Leading Roles in "Strange Cargo."

Clark Gable and Joan Crawford are together for the sixth time in "Strange Cargo," which came to the Palace today for four days. Gable scored his first hit with Miss Crawford in "Dance Fools, Dance." Both have come a long way since that picture.

In "Strange Cargo" Gable plays a convict who has supreme faith in his own strength and endurance to carry him through any crisis. Miss Crawford plays a cynical café entertainer.

The supporting cast boasts Paul Lukas, Peter Lorre, Albert Dekker, J. Edward Bromberg, John Arledge and Eduardo Ciannelli. Action is laid in the tropics. The bill will include "Siege," an unexpensive film of the fall of Warsaw.

Wednesday Feature

"Adventure in Diamonds," now booked for Wednesday, brings George Brent, Ian Miranda and John Loder in a story laid in Cape Town, sophisticated metropolis of the Union of South Africa where diamonds are mined. Miss Miranda plays a lovely lady crook who deals in diamonds and Brent plays a British flyer she meets aboard ship enroute to South Africa. She hopes to steal the Kimberley diamond. Loder is cast as an affable jewel thief. For the first time theatergoers will see ostrich racing, the favorite sport of the South African diamond barons.

Basil Rathbone, one of the screen's most accomplished stars, plays the role of Richard III in

Early Film Days Shown

"Hollywood Cavalcade" Returns on Marion Theater
Bill for 2 Days.

The romance of the movies is told in the technicolor production, "Hollywood Cavalcade," which will be brought back to the Marion Sunday and Monday. Alice Faye and Don Ameche play the star and director who are a part of the Hollywood story from the days of the first one-reelers to today's world premieres. Mark Bennett, bathing beauties, Buster Keaton, Ben Turpin and the Keystone Cops in their custard-comedy, Al Jolson, J. Edward Bromberg, Stuart Erwin and Alan Curtis make the picture, particularly the first half, top-notch screen fare. "Parole Fixer," based on J. Edgar Hoover's "Persons in Hiding," will be on the same bill. William Henry, Anthony Quinn, Virginia Dale and Lyle Talbot are featured.

An amusing, well made comedy is "Joe and Ethel Turp Call on the President," based on the characters in Damon Runyon's column. Ann Southern is perfect as Ethel, a girl to whom life is a constant source of bewilderment but who has learned to solve problems she doesn't understand by the sheer force of her indignation. William Gargan plays Joe and Lewis Stone is the president. Walter Brennan plays the postman in whose interest the trip to Washington is made. The picture will be shown Tuesday and Wednesday with a melodrama, "Convicted Woman," featuring Rochelle Hudson, Frieda Inescort, June Lang and Lola Lane in a story of a girl's reformatory.

A new serial, "Flash Gordon Conquers the Universe," with Larry Crabbe as "Flash," will begin on the Thursday-Saturday program. It will be shown in 12 episodes. It's a drama of war in the stratosphere. The feature pictures will be a comedy, "Henry Goes Arizona," with Frank Morgan, Virginia Weidler, Guy Kibbee and Slim Summerville, and "Outpost of the Mounties," with Charles Starrett in the role of an intrepid sergeant in the world's most famous police force. Iris Meredith is Starrett's leading woman.

100 HERE FOR ONE-DAY

DISTRICT HI-Y MEETING

Some 100 young men from Marion and nearby communities gathered here today for a one-day Hi-Y conference on "Citizenship Responsibilities." Most of the sessions were scheduled for the First Reformed church. A dinner will be held at 6, followed by dancing at the Y at 8:30 p. m. Dr. C. E. Jensehn, president of Heidelberg college, was the principal speaker.

It is a moving love story played against the background of the hurricane which devastated portions of New England. Boyer has the role of a famous French pianist and Miss Dunne is a waitress who meets and falls in love with him in 12 hours. In supporting roles will be seen Barbara O'Neil, Onslow Stevens, Nydia Westman and Greta Meyer. On the same bill will be "Rolling Westward," a Tex Ritter action picture.

The Tuesday-Wednesday program will be a problem drama, "Parents on Trial," featuring Jean Parker and Johnny Downs, and "First Offenders," featuring Walter Abel.

YOUR HEALTH

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M.D.

Helping Aged

A branch of medicine which has not yet reached the dignity of a specialty is geriatrics, which deals with the diseases of old people. Numerous doctors are interested in the subject, and it offers an opportunity for the application of specialized knowledge. It also has many rewards. No more grateful group of patients can be found; the physician who pays special attention to them will be well paid by the affection of his elderly patients.

Of course, doctors are always trying to encourage longevity. Their whole lives are devoted to that aim, although we do not know very much of the factors which cause it and have no control over the most important factor—heredity. It is not easy to put your finger on just what the constitutional condition is which results in old age—whether it is a good system of blood vessels, a weak digestion which prevents excesses, or a continuance of interest in life itself.

Alcohol, tobacco and other dissipations, unfortunately for the moralists, seem to have little to do with the subject. Benjamin Franklin said he saw more old drunkards than old doctors. Nor is it true that "the longer the bowel, the shorter the life."

The specialist in old age hasn't the advantage of the standards of change which the children's specialist has. The pediatrician knows month by month, and year by year, how much growth in height and weight, the development of the teeth, and change in the bodily form should be, but exactly at what period of life different senile changes should occur is not known.

There is a loss of height and weight in old age; many organs, such as the tonsils and the appendix, atrophy; in fact, all the organs in the body lose weight. Large tonsils are far more significant at 70 than at seven. All these things mean a corresponding loss of function. There is a loss of appetite and elderly people are increasingly constipated and fatigued.

In old age symptoms which are significant in younger people may have no significance at all. For instance, a tremor may mean much in a younger person, but mean nothing in a man over 55. The reflexes of the nervous system almost entirely disappear in old age. In old age "the organs suffer in silence," to quote a great physician. A gall stone attack may occur without any pain whatever. Fever is rare.

Other symptoms are of great significance. A cough may be very serious in an elderly person, especially a chronic cough. Little pouches, diverticula, in the intestine, which give no trouble at younger levels, may flare up in the elderly. The "left-sided appendicitis" of the elderly is due to infection of these diverticula.

Skin eruptions are common and serious due to the atrophy of the skin. Certain infections are common in the elderly—erysipelas, pneumonia and, as I mentioned a

A New New Deal

THE essence of a vital idea was distilled from the speeches at the Ohio Republican rally in Columbus. In contrast with 1936 when the opposition offered a platform consisting of diluted versions of the New Deal, the 1940 campaign program is shaping up as a series of alternatives to the New Deal's least defensible mistakes.

This may not work; it may lack political appeal. But in the ordinary operation of party government, the party in power is unseated when and if its policies, both good and bad, become so firmly fixed they can not be changed, except by a change of administration. It is a fact and an unpleasant one for Democrats that after eight years in power they are in the position of defending some things that are indefensible.

These are the things the opposition, according to speakers at the Republican rally, is prepared to change. The parts of the New Deal that have won popular approval, on the other hand, are to be preserved. There should be neither a reversion to an old deal or an imitation of the New Deal, but an orderly creation of a new New Deal. In short, the opposition should promise what the New Deal, being the defender of its own record, can neither promise nor perform—elimination of the policies that have failed. Eight years have proved what will work and what won't work and it is time to have an accounting.

It may not win an election, but it makes sense.

Britain's Old Men

IN 1911, when it saw the handwriting on the wall that spelled war with Germany, Great Britain called young Winston Churchill to the job of putting the navy into shape. In 1939, under similar circumstances, it called on him again. In 1940, with the war under way, Churchill is made top man of a British war cabinet. At 65, he is the only natural leader in sight for the grim task of saving the empire.

Writer, soldier, sailor, financier, philosopher, statesman and politician when he needs to be, famous son of a famous father, Winston Churchill seems to come as close to being Britannia's strong man as the nature of the situation permits. Yet the fact remains that after 40 active years in government he is not young any more. Nor are the other key men in the new cabinet young either. Sir John Simon is 67; he is chancellor of the exchequer. Sir Kingsley Wood at 59 will direct home policy. It is a seasoned trimmature called to the support of 71-year-old Prime Minister Chamberlain. One wonders what the effect of a long war on Britain's aging leadership and on Britain may be.

Weasands and Buckeyes

WHEN British blockaders seized 27,000 weasands from Germany recently and put them up for sale, potential customers were mystified. The dictionary said weasands were windpipes, but whose?

Finally, a spokesman for the ministry of economic warfare explained that weasands were bullocks' windpipes, used for sausage casings. It suggested an idea for solving this department's own current word mystery.

The March issue of Printers Ink Monthly, in an article discussing development of quality advertising by low price soil manufacturers, says, "There is a distinct trend away from the buckeye." What does that mean?

Webster's New International Dictionary says a buckeye is variously a kind of tree, an Ohioan, a type of boat, and a butterfly. It gives no hint that it also is a synonym for lack of quality, as suggested by Printers Ink.

While a reply from the magazine is awaited, does any Ohioan know why the symbol of his state came to mean anything but quality to an outsider?

Filling in a Picture

WALL Street's chops may quiver in delight at the prospect of a long war and droop at rumors of peace, but out along the pike both possibilities have been discounted in advance.

Farm leaders were first to see the limitations of a war boom. They predicted belligerents would buy everything they could on a basis of diplomatic and exchange advantage—that agricultural commodities were available closer to home than the United States. Don't anticipate a rising market, they warned.

Events so far have sustained their warning not to expect a farm boom. Retail cost of food for 51 cities increased only three-tenths of one per cent between December 1939 and January 1940. Export demand for farm crops diminished. The war looks like just one more headache for American farmers, not even preceded by a spree as the World war was.

News Behind the News

Tax Assessments Against Indianan May Flare Into McNutt's Campaign.

By PAUL MALLON

By PAUL MALLON

WASHINGTON, April 6.—Treasury tax extractors are chafing up an assessment of nearly a quarter of a million dollars, $233,000 to be exact, against a prominent Indiana politician, friend of the Roosevelt cabinet member, Paul McNutt. Mr. McNutt is not involved but two other of his friends may be.

If the politics takes it, the settlement will be hushed. But the pursued gentleman has informed his friends here that he has hired an attorney to dispute the government claim openly in the board of tax appeals. The matter may break within a week.

When and if it does the whole skein of criss and counter in Indiana about McNutt, the McNutt state organization and its taxes will be pulled out in public.

The state department received an apparent innocent inquiry from a New York exporter asking if the strategic materials control board had any objection to selling pewter and babbit metal abroad. To be pleasant and co-operative the department replied it had none. Tin, rubber, etc., were on the blacklist, but not pewter and babbit metal.

Immediately thereafter dozens of letters started pouring in asking permission to ship these two obscure compounds. Interest of the department was aroused. Investigation showed the pewter to be shipped contained about 95 per cent tin and the babbit metal was 65 to 90 per cent tin. Russian buying agent Amtorg was taking it all.

The ban was immediately withdrawn to include the two metals.

Nothing Syrup

British-American disputes have practically disappeared from the headlines the past few weeks, due mainly to the quiet inside job of untangling done here by the Allied good will mission (Ashton-Gwatkin, Risi) with Assistant Secretary of State Adolf Berle. Individual friendly statements are to be issued within a week. Whether they will contain much concrete action is doubtful. At least a British control plan will be established in Canada for trans-Atlantic shipping and the U. S. may promise to ration exports to neutrals surrounding Germany. It was probably in these conferences that the suggestion of the British paying the war debt with transfer of West Indian islands was mentioned informally by the British, but any important action along this or other lines is apt to await later separate negotiation.

Tightening
Satisfactory deal has been made between the state department and the commodity exchanges to restrict exports of strategic defense materials without selling the exchanges involved in the anti-trust law. The Russian buying had already been cut to practically nothing. Tin buying (Amtorg) in February amounted to only 440 tons.

Horse-Trading
War department is arranging to get what it can out of the Allies in return for releasing its best planes. The original price list has been quietly withdrawn and the British and French will be required to pay for releasing the plants to accelerate the new production.

Winklers
Mr. Ashton-Gwatkin delivered an entire address before employees of a New York brokerage house this week with his eyes closed. This feat has inspired rumors that he will be appointed to the British cabinet.

The cabinet changes already made inspired no interest here. They were nowhere near the re-organization forecast in this spot Dec. 16, but only a mild makeshift effort to avoid more emphatic action. Wider changes will follow.

Crow-Flouring

Mr. Roosevelt's lightning calculators on spending have worked out some figures based on the March 13 income tax returns claiming these showed receipts would be one half billion dollars more than the budget estimates for the calendar year. This was the gasoline that got the fresh spending blaze going in congress. It was passed along to members of the appropriations committees and encouraged them to abandon their economy efforts.

The treasury is covering all its figures with an official hand in order not to encourage the spenders. It has announced only that first quarter revenue was higher than expected, not saying how much. Some of its figures suggest revenue will only be $300,000,000 to $350,000,000 more than the budget.

On The Record

Unusually Difficult Problems, Trying Times
Await Next President of U. S.

By DOROTHY THOMPSON

THE job of being president of the United States in the next four years is not one to be jumped at with insouciant glee. The next four years will, in all probability, be four of the most critical years in the history of the Republic. We need a president who approaches the task prayerfully, in full realization of the tremendous problems which will have to be faced.

Unless some sort of peace is concluded this spring they are likely to be years of war, and whatever attitude America may take, the war will have powerful repercussions upon our own society and economy. This war is different from the last war, because it occurs in a world where the demand of the masses for fuller participation in the control and benefits of the production system is the outstanding characteristic of the age and where the international financial structure is by no means as solid and as flourishing as it was in the years during which the last war was waged.

Whether there is peace or war for us, the war, even as far as it has gone, has brought about radical social and economic changes in all the countries involved, and to these changes, as they have occurred and will go on occurring, the American economy will have to make adjustments.

Changes in 2 Years

Whatever the New Deal, furthermore, has or has not accomplished, the past seven years have brought about an enormous psychological changes in the United States. The New Deal has definitely challenged the social complacency of the pre-depression era. It has insisted upon exposing the many weak points in our society—the plight of the agricultural tenant and laborer, and the serious decay of whole regions, such as northern Michigan and large areas of the South. It has greatly stimulated the labor movement; it has led to demands upon government surpassing any ever made in the history of this country; it has greatly centralized power.

The social discontent is greater than the picture of the economy justifies, measured by any previous standards, but this discontent, particularly apparent among youth, is a fact.

There was never more 100 per cent Americanism but never a greater divergence of opinion as to what 100 per cent Americanism means. There is an immense interest in politics, accompanied by incapacity to express the national aim in any clear terms.

The Republicans are in a dilemma for a candidate. Of the pillars of the party, the ablest man by all odds is precisely the man who, it is apparently universally agreed, could not possibly be elected: Herbert Hoover. Mr. Hoover knows what the world is about; he has a passion for the preservation of society, which is probably the noblest passion that a human being can have; he is intelligent and honest. But he has not the power to inspire confidence in the broad masses of the people; he has not that particular quality of leadership which belongs to the second half of the twentieth century.

Leadership

That particular quality of leadership is something difficult to define but easy to recognize. It is the power to hold confidence while being capable of audacity. Franklin Delano Roosevelt has it, and because he has it, if he runs for a third term against any candidate now in the field, he will almost certainly be elected. Mr. Roosevelt, particularly in his second term and especially at the beginning of that term, made almost every political mistake that could be thought of. He has often made lamentable choices of advisors, and often has acted on lamentable advice. But an air of luck is around him; a lucky star. He has an infinite elasticity. He can tack to many winds. Underneath all he does there is a certain consistency of attitude and behavior; he is on the side of the masses; he is more interested in the fate of people than he is in money; and he knows that we live in a time when every existing value is being challenged and many past values must be revised. He does not believe that there is the remotest chance of this country returning to any status quo ante.

And since this conviction is the almost unconscious belief of nearly every intelligent American, Americans curse him and return to him. For there is nobody else in the limelight who would have much chance against him.

CONVINCING THE SKEPTICAL

From News of Other Years

TEN YEARS AGO.

It was Sunday, April 6, 1930. Mrs. Ivan Wobley of Columbus, returned missionary from Tibet, was guest speaker in the annual thank offering service of Prospect Street M. E. church.

Mr. and Mrs. George Hagemann of Marion were among the guests at a party given for Mrs. Elizabeth Moore at her home near Richwood in celebration of her eighty-second birthday anniversary.

A group of friends gave a surprise dinner for Mrs. Rachel Pohler at her home on Sharpless court in celebration of her birthday anniversary. Mrs. W. T. Buchanan of Edge-wood was a guest at the home of her parents, Rev. and Mrs. D. B. Cope of Iberia. Other guests at the Cope home were Misses Helen and Jean Morningstar of Glendale, W. Va., and Mrs. A. J. Lindsey of Armstrongs Mills, O.

Mrs. Stella Watson of Alliance was a guest of her sisters, Mrs. Edward Glimpse of Uhler avenue and Mrs. Jay Charles of Spencer street.

TWENTY YEARS AGO.

It was Tuesday, April 6, 1920. Hector S. Young, as administrator of the estate of a resident of the county home who had died Jan. 26, turned $887 over to the county treasurer for the infirmity fund. This amount was left after settlement of the estate.

A daughter was born to Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Augustine of Reed avenue. The Retail Merchants bureau elected officers including C. F. Smith, president, John R. Jenner, vice president, and A. C. Bachman, secretary and treasurer.

The feature picture at the Marion theater was "The Firing Line," starring Irene Castle and David Powell, and at the Grand Douglas MacLean and Doris May had the leading roles in "23 1/2 Hours Leave."

Miscellaneous Marguerite and Besse O'Donnell gave a dinner at their home on Chestnut street in honor of Miss Margaret Drake, whose marriage to Marcellus Kelly was set for April 20.

Miss Luella Scholl was hostess to the Burroughs Nature club at her home on Davis street.

New Time Schedule

By The Associated Press

BERLIN.—For the first time in more than a decade, Germany will this year have summer time as a war measure to save fuel.

At 2 a. m. on April 1, all public clocks throughout Greater Germany were advanced one hour. Summer ends October 6, at 3 a. m., when all time-pieces will be set back one hour.

A German invention during the last war, the idea was abandoned in later years.

Many of Us 9 Years Old

Census Will Show It's Most Populous Age.

This is the last of a series of two articles based on the census.

By JACK STINNETT

WASHINGTON, April 6.—The census-takers are certain of one thing: They'll find more persons 9 years old in the United States than any other age. In 1930, the greatest number of persons the same age was found in the 8-year-old class, but it's moved up a year since then.

Note to the Linton Chamber of Commerce, Green county, Indiana: You may lose the distinction of being the center of population in the United States. Estimates here are the population center will move 3 to 40 miles south and west. That might throw it into Sullivan or Knox county, or even across the state line into Illinois, say in Crawford or Lawrence. Jack Stinnett counties. If you're good neighbors around there, maybe you can show the folks how to make the most of their "Heart-of-America" publicity campaign.

If Horace Greeley were saying it today, he probably would put it this way: "Go west young woman, if you want to get married." The percentage of men to women is far greater in the western states. Arizona, Nevada, Wyoming, Montana, Idaho all are prime "marriage states," with the surplus males running something like this: In Montana, 127 men to every 100 women; in Nevada, 123 to 100. As for cities, new industrial centers, like Detroit, are good marriage towns. San Francisco is another one. But stay away from Hollywood and Washington if you're out to catch a husband. The odds there are against you.

While we are on the marriage subject—the 1940 census certainly is going to contain bad news for the ladies. For about 30 years, the surplus of males in the country (once well over 2,000,000) has been steadily declining and this year probably will drop to half a million.

Although in an aging civilization, there are (and don't ask me why) more male babies than female babies born, the rate of "consumption" is greater for the men. More men die from accidents and disease. Add to this, the declining immigration, which always is predominantly male, and you have the answer. Observers are "viewing with alarm." They say if the trend continues, there'll be more women than men in the country before 1950. Instead of men hunting wives, it will be women hunting husbands. A little thing like that can turn the social pattern of a nation upside down.

What the census-takers' tallies are going to do in some cities and states is going to make big local news, if not national. In Cedar Rapids, Iowa, for instance, if the population goes over a certain point, the mayor and aldermen get a raise in pay.

A number of states have liquor laws, basing the number of saloons in localities on population. If those localities gain, there'll be pubs where there were no pubs before....and if they lose, the saloon-keepers will have to draw straws to see who goes out of business.

Of course, there's the matter of state representation in the house of representatives, but that's another story—probably the biggest that will come out of the 1940 census. Reapportionment is a political bombshell and when the figures are all in, national and local party machines will start tossing the political T.N.T. about wildly as they angle for the advantages of new representation setups.

One thing more: People who refuse to have their noses counted are just cutting them off to spite somebody.

"Er—that's the total size of BOTH shoes, Ma'am. The ACTUAL size is 4 1/2."

Lots of Tanks

Hundreds of War Machines

Off French Assembly Lines

Each Month.

By KENNETH DOWNS

International News Service Correspondent

SOMEWHERE IN FRANCE, April 6.—(Clipped)—French tanks are rolling off assembly lines at the rate of a hundred per month now, it was revealed last night by one of the giant armaments factories go day and night.

Leau, secretary of the Renault group, the hard-driving minister of armaments, ducted a group of generals and members of the chamber and senate army commissions to the factories and then out to a test view an astonishing sight.

On the field was a sea of tanks. Their and-steel, armored drivers, standing there, their motors idling, the tanks were 10 abreast for 30 rows. Mr. Leau said that these 500 machines were the first weeks production by this particular factory.

This represents about an eight-fold increase in the production rate since the start of the war.

Several Types of Tanks

There were several types of tanks also this group, ranging from the tiny "chamill" fast, armored, caterpillar machines for munitions and supplies to frontline tanks under fire, to the well-known 10-ton "tank" with its 37 millimeter canon and machine guns, to a monstrous new tank whose armament and other characteristics were requested not to mention.

It can be said, however, that the new ones were extremely impressive as the across the rough terrain. They tend to the French reputation for superior tanks.

The factories are organized along efficiency. Shift follows shift with a jump in the rear of the forges and during day or night, week day or Sunday assembly lines like those of great auto factories function swiftly and expertly, of the workers were skilled employees of mobile factories before the war.

Many Women Employed

There were a surprising number of women in the factories. It was a little startling to woman in overalls and huge gloves in the control cabin of a gigantic crane moving tracks high over our heads. We could quite get accustomed to the sight of middle-aged housewife types in goggles jumpers throughout the huggermugger of fire and noise. But that is all a part picture of war today.

Anecdotes of Ohio

By THOMAS W. MADDOX.

Isaac Drake, an early pioneer to the country, was so impressed by Dr. Willis forth, first pioneer doctor in the area, elicited a tacit promise from the physician enroute down the Ohio river to accept a two-year-old son, Daniel, as a medical apprentice when he became an age.

Daniel Drake, destined to become an ant force in the development of medicine, worked on the Drake farm, of rudimentary schooling from itinerant masters until he was 13.

Isaac Drake then decided Daniel had "of age," and the two went on horseback cinnati where Dr. Goforth had become a successful practitioner.

Dr. Goforth, true to his word made 1 previously, apprenticed young Drake 5 years, after which Drake was given a written diploma in medicine—the first "state" physician in Ohio. Dr. Drake received a formal degree from the Unive Pennsylvania.

War on Cancer Urged

By STEPHEN J. McDONOUGH

Associated Press Science Writer

WASHINGTON, April 6.—Dr. Thomas surgeon general of the public health declared today that cancer is increasing United States.

"It is becoming more and more important both a personal and a public health problem," said in an interview at the "cancer-control month" designated by the administration of President Roosevelt.

The increase is caused in large part, plained, by the advancing average age population. Cancer is the second leading of death in the country, having taken more than 140,000 lives during the last year.

"Early diagnosis and treatment would undoubtedly prevented the deaths of thousands of these people," Dr. Parran said.

He advocated that every state and develop an education organization coo with the American Society for the Control of Cancer and the Women's Field army to the knowledge that cancer can be cured. These educational organizations, he said, promote formation of cancer diagnostic free laboratory service for physicians; formation of suspected cancerous tissue training of physicians in the latest diagnosis and treatment periods.

"A great deal is known about cancer; great deal more remains to be learned comprehensive, coordinated research against it," Dr. Parran said. "We know, stance, that certain coal tars and petroleum products will produce it, that heredity is important part, and that the sex hormone some relationship to the causation of

He Knows Torpedoes

BALTIMORE.—If the Allies ever de print a seaman's guide on "What to Do Torpedoed," they would do well to pluck George H. Grant to write it. He's a ship blown from under him.

A German raider sank the Norman in 1915 while Grant was second mate. He made it to the coast of Ireland. His was as second mate on the Indian mine destroyed 700 miles from St. Hel.

In three boats the crew set out for the captain's and first mate's boats for the coast of Africa. Grant's boat sailed Helena. They made it in seven days, a toning 30 gallons of water by the day. The other two boats were never heard.

His next ship hit a mine in Bristol, 15 miles from shore. Then his next, the Karpat, was torpedoed. The San And final berth, was torpedoed off Port San, tember, 1918.

But Captain Grant has sworn off flirtation with Davey Jones. The Muskegon, New York-Central America service within the neutrality zone, and that all main Grant just fine. Five times sunk at a scratch is pushing luck, and the Scotch master isn't anxious to test the law of a any more.
